KINGS PLACE SCULPTURE TRAIL

About

Pangolin London is one of London's few galleries dedicated to exhibiting sculpture.

Pangolin London's Sculpture Trail includes large scale works by a host of artists, both within the building and canalside at Kings Place, and is fast developing a reputation as one of the UK's most dynamic Sculpture Trails. Please contact Pangolin London for further details and sales enquiries.

Exhibitions

Geoffrey Clarke : Intuitionism

Prints and Works on Paper

Until 18th September 2020

Pangolin London is excited to be presenting an exhibition of prints, works on paper and sculptures by Geoffrey Clarke. Known first and foremost as a sculptor, Clarke was also an exceptional print maker. Using his father's press whilst studying at the Royal College of Art, the artist began a body of work which used sign and symbol to communicate what he described as a 'philosophy of Intuitionism', an idea he developed over the next six decades.

Nature Unwrapped (Kings Place, B-1 Level)

Until 18th September 2020

Artists respond to the world around us, so it is not surprising that nature has and continues to inspire generations of sculptors. This group exhibition presents a diverse selection of works by both established and emerging sculptors exploring nature, including Bryan Kneale RA, David Mach RA, Susie MacMurray, Julie Brook, Charlotte Mayer, Breon O'Casey, and many more.

Spotlight Artist: Jeff Lowe

To coincide with his show, Jeff Lowe has been collaborating with Kip Gresham at the Print Studio in Cambridge to create a series of new screen-prints. In line with the large-scale pieces, these brightly coloured works on paper explore layers, space, and form and have an extraordinary three-dimensional quality to them.

Jeff Lowe has been making sculpture since the age of 15. Between 1971-75, he studied at Central Saint Martin's under the tutelage of William Tucker, Philip King and Anthony Caro and was subsequently a student of 'The New Generation' of British sculptures. During his time at Saint Martins, he was awarded his first solo exhibition at Leicester Galleries in London's Cork Street. He later went on to represent Britain at the Paris Biennale and has exhibited his work in group shows at the Hayward Gallery, Arts Council, British Council, Serpentine Gallery and Ikon Gallery.
