A group exhibition that takes Lynn Chadwick as a point of departure to explore the development of figurative sculpture over the past seven decades. From post-war abstraction to contemporary reinvention, the exhibition brings together Modern British masters and contemporary sculptors who challenge, fragment, and reconstruct the body in new and unexpected ways.

Exhibitions

Pangolin London's Sculpture Trail includes large scale works by a host of artists, both within the building and canalside at Kings Place, and its fast developing reputation as one of the UK's most dynamic Sculpture Trails. Please contact Pangolin London for further details and sales enquiries.

Pangolin London is one of London's few galleries dedicated to exhibiting sculpture.

About

KINGS PLACE SCULPTURE TRAIL

2025

PANGOLIN LONDON

This exhibition coincides with the launch of a monograph on Almuth Tebbenhoff published by Unicorn Publishing, available at the gallery.

A solo exhibition by the multi-disciplinary artist Almuth Tebbenhoff, revealing her ongoing investigation into the transformative possibilities of sculptural materials. From ceramic and steel to marble and paper, the works on display will unfold a sensitive, intelligent search for meaning and purpose in both the natural world and the broader universe.
